TO:  NIO/CF

FROM: GACarver, Jr.

SUBJECT:

REMARKS:

Attached is a package from Andy Marshall consisting of what he calls the Executive Summary of "Project 186," a "National Net Assessment U.S. and Soviet Ground Forces." As you will see, there is a concurrence line for the "Director, Central Intelligence Agency" -- a person who does not exist. I have not the slightest intention of suggesting that Bill Colby sign this document until it has been fish-eyed by you and any others you feel should look it over. I would suggest that it should be quickly skimmed by OSR before we submit any recommendation to the DCI. I spoke to Knoche about this when he stopped by this morning. He will be glad to help in any way you desire and is expecting you to solicit his assistance.

REMARKS:

I have read pages 1-6 of the attached and am returning it to you as requested. In the covering memorandum and the first page of the text, reference is made (in identical words) to the fact that "in support of this effort, the Director of Central Intelligence should prepare a special assessment of likely Soviet and PRC reactions to the new policies, and how these might be influenced by US statements and actions." Are we still on the hook for this "special assessment" or has this request been overtaken by others?

REMARKS:

Attached is a somewhat turgid letter to the Director signed by Ikle but probably written by John Newhouse. Precisely what "Ikle" wants is a little vague though he appears to want instruction and enlightenment for his colleagues several of whom seem anxious to reinvent the wheel. Ed suggests we transfer responsibility for handling this to him. I have no objections but do not want to move in your area without your prior concurrence. I must confess that to my untutored eye this is a worm bucket best dropped in someone else's lap.
